Dear Sirs/Mms,

I plan to attend your 29th Jan. meeting having experienced Authority's ROUGH JUSTICE BURIAL TACTICS. My greatest discovery from the earthly hell lawyer Jan Macfarlane Walker thrust me into, has been as follows: Pills do not cure confusion, but in the finding of the great hope beyond the hopelessness of Confusion's "Crucifixion", the Love which can descend and swaddle each of us in our torment, becoming aware of the comparison, the wider picture,
THE REASON FOR THE DRAMA, THE COMPREHENSION HEALS.

My story is available for scrutiny. Jan M. Walker knew exactly what he was doing as, step by step, he entrapped me into putting my signature to the sale document of 60 Spylaw Bank Rd.
He must have been counting on being protected. And it was only when his protection was no longer able to cover for him that suicide resulted. Authority could have, and should have, stopped his malfunctioning activities. I complained, as also I complained about the treatment I received at the hand of Kenny MacAskill
The Law Society informed Jan M. Walker of my complaint. He replied with a pack of accepted lies, and despite me informing the Law Society of this fact, FOR THEM THE MATTER WAS TO BE AT AN END.
BUT I FIGHT ON KNOWING I AM IN THE RIGHT. Maureen Henderson

Please do not confuse the honourable Jan Walker with Jan M. Walk

Dear Sirs/Mms,

I plan to attend your 29th Jan. meeting. Having experienced rough justice at the hand of Scottish Law - shocked into a refrigeration medical stupor confusion - the 'hidden life' which many believe does not exist, became my 'saving Grace'. Pills are not the answer. When I had need of The IXIXI Life Force behind conscious Conscience, needing It as a drowning man needs air - THAT which was, and is, and ever shall be rescued me. IT DOES EXIST. And from It I learned it is not what others do to me for which I am accountable; BUT WHAT I SET IN MOTION FOR OTHERS. It is fact that "it is the destiny of every rose to blossom on the cross, and of him who seeks light to burn... immortality is not a stage, but a state of the soul... Destiny destroys us in two ways, by refusing our wants or by fulfilling them! But he who wills as God wills escapes both! For the God-man LOSES WITH THE WORLD, BUT WINS WITH GOD. HE LOSES THE CONTINGENT, BUT THE EVERLASTING HE WINS!"

Beyond the despair and hopelessness Jan M. Walker and his protectors manifested for us LIES ETERNITY AND ITS BALANCING. The drama being enacted is for a purpose, testing us. Before THAT BALANCING COURT actions matter, not presumptions. And the double talk manipulator - those of the ilk of Jan M. Walker and his protectors - are the losers.

Whatever is A GENUINE MISTAKE honorable folk correct. The many 'mistakes' Jan Macfarlane Walker made WERE CALCULATED PLOYS TO ENTRAP ME, for this Lawyer had a hidden agenda. NOT ONCE did he carry through agreed instructions, and always to my disadvantage, but to advantage himself

Why?

His initial letter to the Law Society re my complaint was a pack of lies. Yet, despite me telling the Law Society, and the Lay Observer, no help was forthcoming. Even the Fraud Squad backed off after contacting the Law Society. YET I KNOW I WAS BEING USED ABUSIVELY - AS DOES THE LIFEFORCE ITSELF. MY STORY IS AVAILABLE FOR SCRUTINY. Titled deed person sells house to make purchase of other property, but conveyancing law firm takes and uses the money according to its choice. My signature as a witness was not to

We do not, however, wish to be in any way discourteous to another firm of solicitors and we are, therefore, prepared to advise you as follows.

I give my life

Dear Sirs

MRS MAUREEN HENDERSON

Thank you for your letter of 26 February and you will know that the concern of the Law Society in the examination of complaints is as to the professional conduct of the solicitor complained against, with punitive steps being taken if it is found that there has been professional misconduct. This however is of no financial help to a complainer and the Law Society suggest that separate legal advice be taken where there are civil matters involved.

I mention this as the complaints against Mr Walker by Mrs Henderson were fully investigated in 1977 and 1978 when it was the decision of the Law Society that there had been no professional misconduct on the part of Mr Walker

The Lay Observer read the Law Society's file and confirmed that the investigation of the complaint had been properly carried out and there had not been fault in the decision of the Law Society.

Mrs Henderson raised her complaints again with the Law Society in 1985 when a re-examination of the matter was carried through, but it was not seen that any new material facts had been raised and the previous decision of the Law Society was affirmed. There has been subsequent correspondence from Mrs Henderson and Mrs Gorrie on her behalf, but with no new information which had not been available when the Law Society made its investigation into the conduct of Mr Walker. The reference in my letter to Mrs Henderson of 1 May 1986 that but the Law Society were fully aware of the position when the investigation of the complaint was made and I should have phrased my wording more accurately.

I appreciate the trouble you have taken in seeing Mrs Henderson and writing, but I must affirm that a full examination of the actings of Mr Walker has been made and I cannot see grounds for re-opening the matter.

Yours sincerely

IS WHAT FOLLOWS RIGHTEOUS (RIGHT USE) OR SYNTHETIC ROOTLES

ANARCHY REIGNS. "History teaches us that both unlimited power and powerlessness breed corruption; that where all human beings are not valued, humanity is violated; that where differences divide us, they limit and distort us; that independence is an illusion and unlimited freedom is tyranny plunging whole societies and people into bondage." The assumption that Might is always right is a confusing misnomer.

by Michael Joseph (author of The Conveyancing Fraud).

In the first part of this book the author sets out to answer the question, how the lawyers have been able to foist on us such an awful legal system – that is, a legal system which demands that someone who has been seriously injured in an accident (on the roads, in hospital, or wherever) has to wait three to eight years for a Court to determine whether or not he is entitled to any compensation, and in the process has to risk having to pay some £20,000 in legal fees if the Court decides that he is not entitled to any compensation.

However the author does not treat the legal system in isolation, but as an extreme example of how the professions in general have been allowed to devise and foist their own systems on the long-suffering British public. Initially the author examines how MPs, Judges, Magistrates, the professions' own disciplinary bodies, the Consumers' Association, the Press, and the B.B.C. abandon their critical faculties when dealing with professional man. Thus the fact that the professional disciplinary bodies take no action against a doctor or dentist who recklessly kills his patient, or against a solicitor who tries to defraud his client of £130,000; that a dentist who defrauds the N.H.S. of £288,779 is merely given a private demand that he returns £50,000; that a teacher is never sacked for incompetence; that a barrister (the most exalted of all professionals) cannot be sued for a negligent Court performance, or if he ditches his client at the last minute in favour of a more lucrative engagement; that an Act of Parliament controls the hours a lorry driver may work at a stretch but not those of a hospital doctor – these are not isolated anomalies, but part of this pattern.

But if the law-makers, judges and commentators abandon their critical faculties when dealing with professional man, the public is even more uncritical of the system which professional man imposes – the public having been trained since childhood to do what it is told, not to question, and in particular not to question authority (which generally turns out to be the professional).

So having allowed the professional to devise his own system – i.e. having surrendered power to the professional without requiring any checks on how that power is exercised – the only solution (apart from rebelling, which the public is not motivated to do) is to invest the professional with superior morality so that he doesn't need any checks, and won't abuse his power. Thus the true definition of a profession is: an occupation the nature of which, in view of the absence of proper controls, makes it imperative that its practitioners are morally superior to those who do a job which is not a profession; and a professional is someone who engages in such an occupation and who therefore has the appropriate moral superiority.

In the second part of the book the author shows the ultimate result of such wishful thinking, by chronicling some true case histories of accident victims trying to get compensation through the legal system; and whose battle is not so much against an unjust system as against their own incompetent and corrupt lawyers, who seem to do everything in their power to sabotage their clients' case. Why the lawyers should do this, and how they do it, and why these case histories are typical, are also explained.

... and reasonable controls upon Authority

QUESTION: Why did Ian McFarlane Walker commit suicide on 4th June 1988?

ANSWER: A rogue lawyer, he had abused one client too many, and his protectors could no longer turn a blind eye, whitewashing his malfunctioning. His hidden agendas were about to become public knowledge. It is estimated that he cost clients three million pounds plus, as a result of his double dealing fabrications and manipulations.

I myself sent letters to places of authority with facts of his deceits: the queen, the chief constable, the procurator fiscal, the attorney general, Lord Emslie and others, care of the Advocates Library, Parliament Square - to various members of the Westminster Parliament. Three times I sought face to face help from my local MP, Malcolm Rifkind, with my complaint against Ian M Walker, plus my added complaint concerning Scotland's Law Society's peculiar investigation tactics - a letter to the lawfirm concerned, and acceptance of the reply whether honest or fictitious. And the investigation is at an end. There is no check on the wrongdoers.

Quote from A Burnett Walker statement of 9.3.87:

'We have once again looked at the correspondence which we have and as long ago as April, 1986 Mr Walker entered into correspondence with the Law Society who, quite clearly (were) satisfied with his explanations, wrote eventually to him in May, 1986 stating that the Law Society would not become involved further in the matter'

I believe that had there been unbiased, on the spot checking, the 1988 factual criminal functioning could have been avoided, likewise the Ian Walker suicide, to dodge the consequences. Ian McFarlane Walker was a master at double-talk manipulation and at ignoring instructions. I have produced proof of my entitlement to money hived off by this lawyer - an [REDACTED] and the title deed to my home.

Quote from The Daily Record of 4.8.88:

'Solicitor Ian McFarlane Walker, 63, hanged himself when an enquiry began into his law firm's accounts, a court heard yesterday. Colin Tucker, 35, a former partner in the firm, allegedly claimed he was given £3,000 for transferring £18,000 belonging to 79 year old widow to a personal account of Mr Walker's.'

Two people sold yet only one of them was counted as being the owner. Why?

Not only have I not received a penny from the sale despite my name being on the titled deed, but I have lived through hell itself as a result of this action.

[REDACTED]

In other words, until the Agreement was fulfilled, we were owners in name only. Factually until then we were her trustees and tenants. The law firm were aware of this situation and also of the named legal documents. My name upon the titled deed was my mother's security.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

As a matter of interest, I continued seeking an accounting from Ian Walker's variously named law firms, along with my money, but to no avail. I list the names of the various named law firms I know of:

| Duncan, Walker and Eirle, | Burnett Walker and Reid, |
| Burnett Walker and Rae, | Burnett, Walker, Lindsay and Rae |

Dear Madam

I refer to your communication dated 17 September 1985, addressed to the Attorney General, St Andrew's House, and your communication dated 18 September 1985, addressed to the Solicitor General, St Andrew's House. In view of the allegations of crime contained in these communications, they have been passed to this office for attention, as such matters are the responsibility of the Lord Advocate and the Solicitor General for Scotland. I am replying to your communications on their behalf.

I have received a report of the matters of which you complain from the Procurator Fiscal at Edinburgh, with whom you have also recently corresponded. His enquiries have revealed no evidence of criminality on anyone's part, and accordingly the Lord Advocate and Solicitor General for Scotland are unable to intervene, or otherwise assist. The subject matter of your complaint is one of civil (not criminal) law and therefore properly the province of the civil courts. In that connection, I note from the papers you submitted that you were a party to a civil action in the Sheriff Court at Edinburgh on 18 September 1985. [REDACTED]

The lawfirm instructed to do work for me hasn't given me even a penny of the money to date. Yet Authority finds nothing wrong with this abuse of the use of power by the malfunctioning lawfirm.

Re: Protected Preying Predators

I recommend the reading of Michael Joseph's LAWYERS CAN SERIOUSLY DAMAGE YOUR HEALTH in which we are reminded that the public has been trained since childhood not to question authority. Remember if we accept whatever is dealt out to us no correction of fault will be made and it will be ourselves to blame.

May I make clear that I have great admiration for persons rightly using authority, the Francis Bacon's and Sir Thomas More's of the past, the Michael Joseph's and Mahatma Ghandi's of the present. Persons of Conscience, persons of Right Mind.

I am in full agreement with Mahatma Gandhi that betrayal by authority, including burial of injustice, requires to be made visible. Only then will standards of merit be maintained. When those of authority no longer have the least fear of saying something untrue, they very soon have no fear whatsoever of doing something unjust.

In my personal experiencing and observing of betrayal by those believing themselves immune to prosecution, the most disturbing aspect has been that rotten apples, surviving scrutiny, dis-ease whatever touches them. That yesterday's unscrupulous are the contamination of tomorrow's Right Minded Souls.

In Ian Walker's view I was not for treatment as a client but as a thing to which he was required to be polite but over which he had the right of Power of Attorney. Dear Mrs [redacted]

Thank you for your letter of 9 May with the complaints on behalf of Mrs Henderson and I find that the various matters which you mentioned have previously been considered by the Law Society and I do not see that any fresh points have arisen which would further involve the Law Society.

My colleague, Mr Gordon, wrote to Mrs Henderson on 2 July 1985 when he had made a re-examination of the matter and he pointed out to Mrs Henderson that the matter was fully investigated in 1977 and 1978 at which time it was decided that there had been no professional misconduct on the part of Mr Walker in his acting for Mrs Henderson. The Lay Observer confirmed that the investigation had been properly carried out and the matters were explained in a letter to Mrs Henderson from the Law Society of 25 January 1978.

Accordingly I have to confirm that the matters are not to be re-opened.

EVEN A COMPUTER FED LIES BECOMES ITS OWN CONFUSION & THE CONFUSION OF ALL RELATING WITH IT.

Taken hostage by the vamp's piracy, IN HELL ITSELF, RIGHT HERE IN EDINBURGH, THE DIFFERENCE WAS DISCOVERED BETWEEN THE CORRESPONDENCE LAW OF URU SALEM & THE INSANITY OF MADMAN'S REIN. Those who are not vessels rightly using themselves are polluters of the environment: Lukell; they are builders of Babel. AND JERUSALEM WILL NEVER BE BUILT WITH INIQUITY, INDIVIDUALLY OR COLLECTIVELY. IT CAN ONLY BE BUILT FROM WITHIN EACH INDIVIDUAL TO BECOME HIS/HER GIFT TO SOCIETY. It is the GOD-GIVEN RIGHT of every individual TO SELF DETERMINE. Where there is stifling of this FOUNDATION RIGHT every man woman and child is affected. How? What are my complaints?

Let me state them as declaritors:

- a lawfirm is instructed to do the conveyancing of an expensive property
- it is also instructed where to place the money from the sale
- no money has been received, nor has there been accountability for it's disappearance

[REDACTED]

But upon what authority? Did my name upon the [REDACTED] and upon the titled deed count for nothing?

As Ian Walker took the money and used it, my questions are:

- a] When conveyancing is done, does the remuneration from the sale belong to those named upon the titled deed, or to the lawfirm doing the conveyancing?
- b] Are female names upon legal documents merely there for decoration?

The Law Society of Scotland seem to have different answers to mine. Proof of my abused rights has been placed before diverse arenas, including the Crown office, but to no avail. However no proof has been forthcoming to back up the fabrications of Ian Walker, and those whitewashing his activities.

My basic proof comes from two legal documents:

- [REDACTED]
- and the 60 Spylaw Bank Road titled deed, in both names, for a property now valued at over £330,000

[REDACTED]

* I quote: 'Douglas Henderson and Maureen Yvonne Ferguson and Henderson have sold...'

SACL asks for your help in defeating the scourge of CROOKED LAWYERS in Scotland. The best way in which you can help us to defeat them is to join in our monthly DEMOS outside the Scottish Parliamentary Offices on GEORGE IV Bridge/Royal Mile corner on the first Wednesday every month at 1.00 pm. Never forget YOU could be the next victim of CROOKED LAWYERS

France, where there's corruption in high places, Madame Joly will sniff it out. Her assault on the feeze in an establishment that considers itself above the law is sending shockwaves through the nation. Fight now, she has a former foreign minister in the dock. He isn't the first to feel the weight of Joly's justice - and he won't be the last. (This was taken from an interview report by Peter Lennon found in THE GUARDIAN newspaper.)

WATCHDOG SAYS LEGAL COMPLAINTS MUST BE PROBED BY OUTSIDERS (by Paul Milbride, Scottish Political Correspondent in The Express 8.1.99) LAWYERS should no longer be allowed to investigate complaints against their own profession, consumer watchdogs said yesterday. A survey into how grievances against solicitors were handled by the Law Society of Scotland found that half those who replied were unhappy with the current system.

Yesterday the Scottish Consumer Council, which carried out the research, called for the Scottish Parliament to set up an independent body to deal with complaints against law firms and solicitors. One person dissatisfied with the system claimed: "There are many people out there suffering untold misery because of the way they are dealt with by the Law Society. The whole thing needs to be opened up."

The Scottish Consumer Council questioned 1,200 people who had used the Law Society's complaints procedures. They were asked how their solicitor dealt with the initial complaint, about aspects of the society's procedure, the outcome of the complaint and the Scottish Legal Services Ombudsman.

Among its findings were: Half of those who replied thought the present system unfair. Thirty per cent of those whose complaint was upheld by the Law Society thought they had been unfairly dealt with. More than 40 per cent said they were dissatisfied or very dissatisfied with the way in which the Society had handled their grievance. Of those who first complained to their solicitor, 16 per cent said they were completely ignored by the lawyer or firm.

The report criticises many aspects of the Law Society's current system and makes suggestions how they could be improved. It is also critical of the way in which solicitors themselves deal with complaints. But the report's most controversial recommendation is that the Holyrood Parliament should establish a review of the present system, and set up a totally independent body to handle complaints made by solicitors' clients.

Yesterday Scottish Consumer Council Chairman Deirdre Hutton said: "The results of the research showed that half of those taking part were unhappy with the procedure and we have made recommendations based on our research which we believe would considerably improve the present system. However, if consumers are to be confident that the procedures are entirely fair, we believe the research suggests that the way forward should be to establish an independent body to deal with complaints about solicitors in Scotland."

But yesterday the Law Society, which represents and is funded by Scotland's 8,000 practising solicitors disagreed. President Philip Dry said: "I continue to believe that the Society is best able to deal with client complaints, which it does without any cost to the public. The system used should be open to public scrutiny and constantly adapted and improved to meet the needs of citizens of Scottish solicitors. The Society does not agree with the recommendation made to the Scottish Parliament to set up an independent complaints handling body. It is disappointing that 12 years on, despite the improvements which we have made, the SSC continues to lobby for this."

Last year the Law Society spent £382,000 investigating around 1,400 clients' complaints, which represented less than one in 1,000 of all work undertaken by the country's solicitors.

ACTING FOR THE SCOTTISH LEGAL CONSUMER SACL - Scotland Against Crooked Lawyers - is the champion of the people of Scotland to get Redress/Compensation from Crooked Lawyers who have defrauded them. It has many case histories of people who have been defrauded by Crooked Lawyers and their long lonely experiences as they have fought on for REDRESS/COMPENSATION from the Crooked Lawyers and the legal profession's representative body, the Law Society of Scotland

1. Stuart Usher: Stuart Usher has fought to get to Court for many years without success. His fight is mainly with Brodies WS, a prominent Edinburgh Law Firm. The Usher family were generous benefactors to Scotland in the 19th and 20th centuries, - particularly to the city of Edinburgh. Stuart, quite rightly in our view, is simply not prepared to let Brodies and the Edinburgh Legal Mafia get away with their various involvements in the betrayal and destruction of his family over the last fifty years. His story can be quite accurately described as "The Fall of the House of Usher" and has been referred to in these terms in the media over the last few years. Stuart recommends anyone who has been/ is being defrauded by Crooked Lawyers to join him and many others to fight and defeat Crooked Lawyers under the banner of SACL.

HOUSE OF USHER IN £365m LAWSUIT (Sunday Times 1.4.01) The fall of the House of Usher, from one of the wealthiest families in Britain to roadside holding purveyors, is one of the most spectacular in recent aristocratic history. But after years of setbacks, the impoverished heirs have finally launched Scotland's biggest lawsuit in an attempt to regain their family's fortune, write Marcello Mega and Jenny Shuields.

Stuart Usher has issued a summons for £365m against Brodies, Scotland's oldest lawfirm, claiming the company has been negligent in managing a family trust.

His ancestors once owned thousands of acres of prime land in Perthshire, Lothian and the Scottish Borders. Today Stuart Usher sells hotdogs to passing motorists near his home outside Jedburgh. Since he returned to the Borders from South Africa in 1995, he has also worked as a mini-cab driver and a barman at the Duke of Roxburghe's sumptuous country house hotel. Last week he said he believes he now has a fighting chance of winning back the family's wealth.

The Usher family lost control of its fortune in the 30 years to 1994, when successive family heads Sir Peter and Sir Robert Usher both suffered from Down's syndrome. Lawyers were appointed to manage the family trust, Mackenzie and Black, incorporated in the 1970s into Brodies, were appointed trustees of the Usher Baronets Trust set up in 1911.

Between 1911 and 1933, about £1.2m in cash, property and securities was paid into the trust. According to the summons issued on Usher's behalf, the trust was generating an income by 1928 of £70,000 a year. It says the current value of identified trust assets would be £110m, capable of producing an income of £8m a year. However, the summons notes that between 1911 and 1998, family members received only £5m.

2. Maureen Henderson: Maureen's lawyer never paid Maureen the proceeds of her family home after it was sold in the 1970's, sold specifically to purchase replacement property for her mother and family in Aberdeen and Aberdeenshire. As result the family had its first experience of homelessness.

On 4.6.88 this rogue lawyer, Ian McFarlane Walker, committed suicide to avoid a probable jail sentence. Yet again he was involved in an act of theft from a client. In fact, it is estimated that he cost clients THREE MILLION POUNDS plus as result of his double dealing fabrications and manipulations. No reason has ever been given to Maureen as to why her name upon legal deeds was ignored, as to why the lawyer was permitted to treat her instructions with contempt, overriding them with his choices. And so Maureen fights on. Many would have given up this fight years ago. Maureen believes that such malfunctioning, if not challenged, will be repeated by other protected wrongdoers.
