

ADAM BAXTER, journeyman weaver; DUNCAN M^cNAUGHTON, journeyman weaver; and GEORGE PHILP, journeyman flesher, all now or lately prisoners in the prison of Dunfermline, you are Indicted and Accused, at the instance of ANDREW RUTHERFURD, Esquire, Her Majesty's Advocate for Her Majesty's interest: THAT ALBEIT, by the laws of this and of every other well-governed realm, MOBING and RIOTING, especially when committed for the purpose of violently and unlawfully compelling a number of Her Majesty's subjects residing in a particular town, or in the suburbs and vicinity thereof, to leave the same, and to abandon their work or employment there; As also, the VIOLENTLY, MASTERFULLY, and UNLAWFULLY INVADING and ENTERING the houses of any of Her Majesty's subjects, or the workshops or premises in which they were employed, for the purpose of searching for, and violently and unlawfully ejecting therefrom, any of Her Majesty's subjects, especially when committed by means of HOUSEBREAKING; As also, the VIOLENTLY, MASTERFULLY, and UNLAWFULLY EJECTING any of Her Majesty's subjects from the houses in which they resided, or in which they lawfully were, or from the workshops or premises in which they were employed; As also, ASSAULT, especially when committed to the effusion of blood, and serious injury of the person, are crimes of an heinous nature, and severely punishable: YET TRUE IT IS AND OF VERITY, that you the said Adam Baxter, Duncan M^cNaughton, and George Philp, are, all and each, or one or more of you, guilty of the said crimes, aggravated as aforesaid, or of one or more of them, actors or actor, or art and part: IN SO FAR AS, on the 24th day of June 1850,

or on one or other of the days of that month, or of May immediately preceding, or of July immediately following, you the said Adam Baxter, Duncan M^cNaughton and George Philp, did, all and each, or one or more of you, along with a mob or great number of riotous and evil-disposed persons, of which you formed a part, a great number of you being armed with sticks or bludgeons, or other similar weapons, wickedly and feloniously, assemble in the streets of the town of Dunfermline, in the county of Fife, and in the suburbs and vicinity thereof, for the common purpose of violently and unlawfully compelling a number of Her Majesty's subjects, who were natives of Ireland, or were supposed by said mob or great number of riotous and evil-disposed persons to be so, and who then resided and were, all or many of them, then employed as labourers or workmen in said town, suburbs, or vicinity, to leave the same, and abandon their work or employment there; and also for the purpose of assaulting and intimidating Her Majesty's subjects, or for some other unlawful purpose to the prosecutor unknown; and said mob or great number of riotous and evil-disposed persons did, then and there, and particularly, at or near Damside, and in or near Bruce Street, and in or near North Chapel Street, and at or near Beveridgewell, and at or near Baldridgeburn, and at or near Rumblingwell, and at or near Milesmark, and at or near Bothwellhaugh, and at or near Newrow Street, all in or near the town of Dunfermline, or the suburbs and vicinity thereof, and on or near the line of the Stirling and Dunfermline Railway, formed, or then in the course of formation, in or near Dunfermline, and the suburbs and vicinity thereof, and along the road leading from Dunfermline to North Queensferry, or part thereof, conduct themselves in a violent, riotous, and menacing manner, in breach of the public peace, and to the great terror and alarm of the inhabitants of said town, suburbs, and vicinity; and did violently and unlawfully compel a number of Her Majesty's foresaid subjects, who were natives of Ireland, or were supposed by said mob or great number of riotous and evil-disposed persons to be so, to leave the said town, suburbs, or vicinity, and abandon their work or employment there; and did, with stones or other missiles, and with sticks or bludgeons, or other similar weapons, and with their fists, assault many of said subjects, to the serious injury of their persons; and did violently, masterfully, and unlawfully, invade and enter the houses of many of Her Majesty's subjects, situated in the various localities particularly above libelled, or one or more of them, for the purpose of searching for, and violently and unlawfully, ejecting therefrom, any of Her Majesty's subjects, natives of Ireland, or supposed to be so, who might be found therein, and did so enter some of said houses by means of housebreaking; and did, violently, masterfully, and unlawfully, eject from said houses, or some of them, a number of Her Majesty's subjects, natives of Ireland, or supposed to be so, who resided or were lawfully therein, and did drive and eject a great number of Her Majesty's said subjects from the town of Dunfermline, and the suburbs and vicinity thereof, where they respectively resided, or were employed, along the road from Dunfermline to North Queensferry, or a great part thereof, and did assault, abuse, and maltreat them by the way ; and all this the said mob or great number of riotous and evil-disposed persons did, in the execution of the common illegal purpose or purposes above libelled : AND IN PARTICULAR (1.), the said mob or great number of riotous and evil-disposed persons did,
